We encourage a top administrator from each school district to attend. The knowledge and practices learned at this forum can then be taken back to your district and shared with all faculty.

As we have seen, the pain of each act of targeted violence in our nation's schools has had a powerful impact on all. Therefore, the U.S. Secret Service – NTAC has taken the lead on initiatives aimed at preventing future school attacks and setting a path forward to keep our children safe.

Personnel from the NTAC will be in attendance to present their research and share actionable steps that schools can take to develop targeted violence prevention plans and create processes and procedures for conducting threat assessments on their campus.
